SensusAccess is a web and email-based service that converts documents into a range of accessible formats including Braille, mp3, Daisy, epub and mobi. The service can also be used to convert otherwise inaccessible documents into more accessible formats.

The SensusAccess web interface is available for integration to universities and other educational institutions who wish to make the service available to students and faculty on campus internets or intranets. Integration is subject to an annual subscription fee.

SensusAccess is powered by the award-winning RoboBraille® service. For more information and to try out the service for free, please visit www.SensusAccess.com.
